

America's National Parks

and Natural Wonders The GREAT OUT DOORS

Apache Trail of Arizona, Oregon Open All Year

One of the finest roads in the world, Columbia River Highway, from Portland, through Columbia River Gorge, to City of Hood River. No grade greater than 5%, 24 feet wide. Eleven fine waterfalls in ten miles. Petrified and sunken forests, salmon wheels and fish hatcheries.

Crater Lake National Park, Southern Oregon June 1 to Sept. 20

A lake of extraordinary blue in the crater of an extinct volcano. Interesting lava formations. Garden of the Gods, Pinnacles, Falls, camping, fishing, horseback riding. Auto and motorcycle permits issued for season. Good hotels and camps.

General Grant National Park, California May 24 to Oct. 10

Mammoth trees, such as the General Grant, height 264 feet; diameter 35 feet; George Washington, height 255 feet, diameter 29 feet. Magnificent scenery, cliffs, meadows, caves, streams. Comfortable camps. Auto and motorcycle permits for the season may be had.

Glacier National Park, Northwestern Montana June 15 to Sept. 15

Second largest in the United States. Over 1,500 Sq. Miles. More than 60 glaciers, 250 lakes. Many interesting geological formations. Hotel and camp system is especially good, at scenically strategic points within an easy day's journey from one to another.

Glacier Park, British Columbia, Dominion National Parks June 15 to Sept. 15

This beautiful reservation in the Selkirk Mountains includes famous Illecillewaet and Asulkan Glaciers, Ute Pass, Mt. Sir Donald and Nakimu Caves. Hotel, Swiss guides for mountain climbing.

Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona Open All Year

Often called "The First Wonder of the World." 217 miles long, 13 miles wide, with a depth of more than a mile. Remarkable colorings and formations. Tall pines. There is a splendid hotel and several camps, two in the depths of the Canyon.

Hot Springs National Park, Arkansas Open All Year

The Great American Spa. Forty-six hot springs containing curative powers.

Lafayette National Park, Maine Open All Year

Only National Park east of the Mississippi River. On Mount Desert Island. Group of granite mountains. Highest elevation on Atlantic Seacoast. Many excellent walking trails through mountains.

Lassen Volcanic National Park, Northern California June 15 to Sept. 15

210 miles from San Francisco. Unique among National Parks. 124 Sq. Miles. Lassen Peak, 10,465 feet, is the only active volcano in the United States proper. There have been 200 eruptions to the present time. Beautiful canyons, forests, ice caves, hot springs, trout streams.

Mount Rainier National Park, Washington June 15 to Sept. 15

Half a day's journey from Seattle or Tacoma. 324 Sq. Miles. Mt. Rainier, the magnificent snow-covered peak, 14,408 feet. Great forests of fir and cedar. 360 species of wild flowers. Two good hotels and several camps. Nisqually Glacier, Paradise Glacier and Valley, Indian Henry's Hunting Ground, Reflection Lake, Mt. Ararat, Van Trump Park, Comet Falls, Silver Spring Falls are among the many points of interest and beauty.

Mesa Verde National Park, Southwestern Colorado May 15 to Oct. 1

Within an area of about three times that of Manhattan Island there are 300 cliff dwellings older than the Egyptian Pyramids. Archeological finds being constantly unearthed. Scenic interests as well, ruins, caves, tunnels and underground passages in abundance. Camp open thru entire season.

Rocky Mountain Park, Canadian Rockies, Dominion National Parks May 15 to Sept. 30

Extends from Banff, Alberta, west to the summit of the Great Divide, and includes 2,751 Sq. Miles. This includes famous Lake Louise, Valley of the Ten Peaks, also Lake Minnewanka. Hotels and chalets, guides, ponies, auto roads, golf, fishing, camping and bathing in warm Sulphur Springs.

Rocky Mountain National Park, North Central Colorado June 15 to Oct. 1

398 Sq. Miles, in the heart of the Rockies. 50 peaks that reach an altitude of more than 10,000 feet. Scenery is wild and magnificent, with both fauna and flora. Most of the accommodations for visitors are found at Estes Park, the eastern boundary of Park. Summer resorts, camps, horseback riding and auto trips.

Sequoia National Park, California May 24 to Oct. 10

252 Sq. Miles in area. Celebrated for its mammoth trees. The largest, the General Sherman Tree, is 279.9 feet in height, 102.8 feet base circumference, greatest diameter 36.5 feet. Other notable trees are in profusion. Saddle and pack animal service conducted. Good fishing. Comfortable camps.

St. Lawrence Reservation, New York and Canada

Includes all of St. Lawrence River and large bays of Lake Ontario, also all of Thousand Island region, which, with few exceptions, are privately owned and form a combination of nature and art hardly possible elsewhere. Plenty of fish, wild ducks and other game birds. Historical and geological interests. Splendid camping facilities.

Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming June 20 to Sept. 15

Largest of the National Parks, with an area of 3,348 Sq. Miles. Contains more geysers than all of the rest of the world put together. Also scenic wonders and unequalled opportunities for observing wild animal life at close range. Round trips by auto to all points of interest. Five large hotels and camping facilities. Semi-centennial, 1872-1922.

Yoho Park, British Columbia, Dominion National Parks July to Sept. 15

One of the most spectacular of the Dominion National Parks system. In its 460 Sq. Miles are included beautiful Emerald Lake, Mts. Wapta, Burgess and the Presidential peaks, the Yoho Valley, Takakaw Falls, 1,200 feet high, and Wapta Glacier. Chalets and bungalows, camps, guides and ponies.

Yosemite National Park, California Open All Year

About 140 miles east of San Francisco. Contains world-famed Yosemite Valley. Hotel accommodations may be had throughout the year. Worth visiting in winter both for snow sports and picturesque scenery. Covers 1,124 Sq. Miles. Tours arranged to all points of interest. Mammoth trees, the oldest living things in the world. Lakes, canyons and falls of exceptional beauty.

Zion National Park, Southwestern Utah May 1 to Nov. 1

Magnificent gorge, Zion Canyon, depth from 800 to 2,000 feet, with precipitous sandstone walls vividly colored. A new and wonderful tourist section.

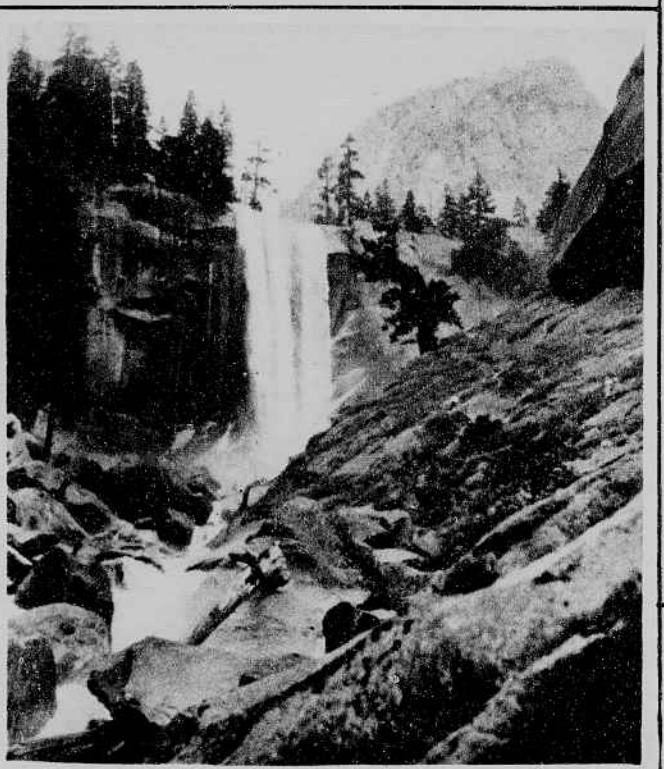

THE ZIG-ZAG TRAIL. Riding along the zig-zag forest trail over Swift Current Pass, Glacier National Park, one realizes how atom-like we humans are in the huge plan of creation.

Courtesy Great Northern Railway

PIKE'S PEAK. As viewed from Colorado Springs, the famous sentinel of the Rocky Mountains looms up in all its snow-capped grandeur.

Courtesy Rock Island Lines

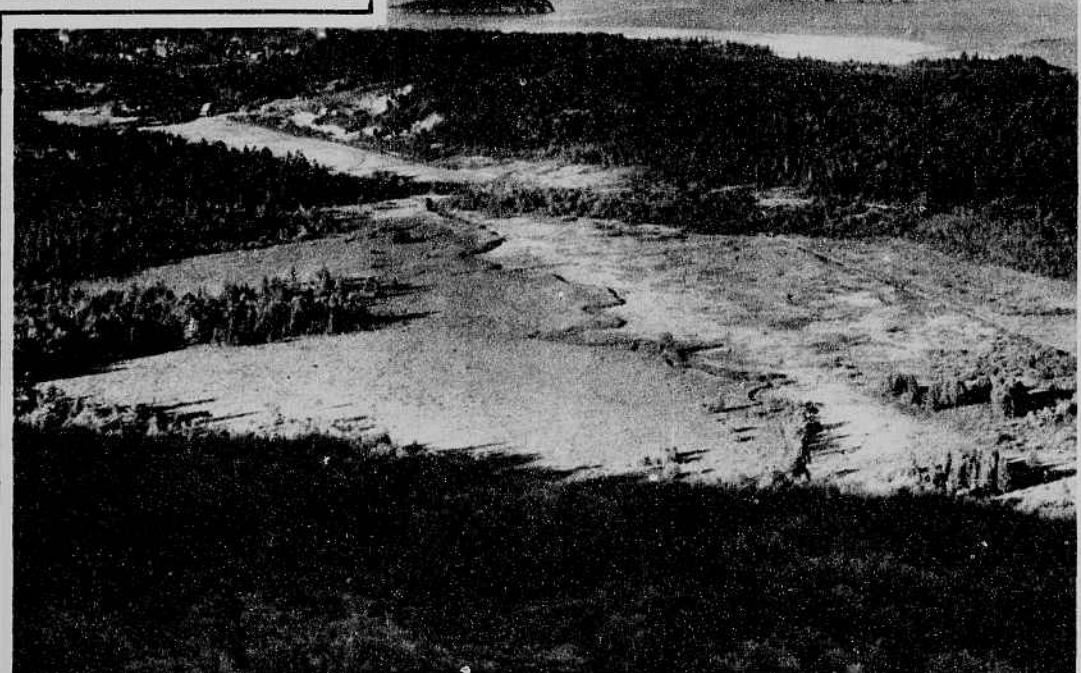

VERNAL FALLS. One of the most beautiful of the country's waterfalls is this 317-foot high cataract in the Yosemite National Park in California.

Courtesy Yosemite Valley R. R. Co.

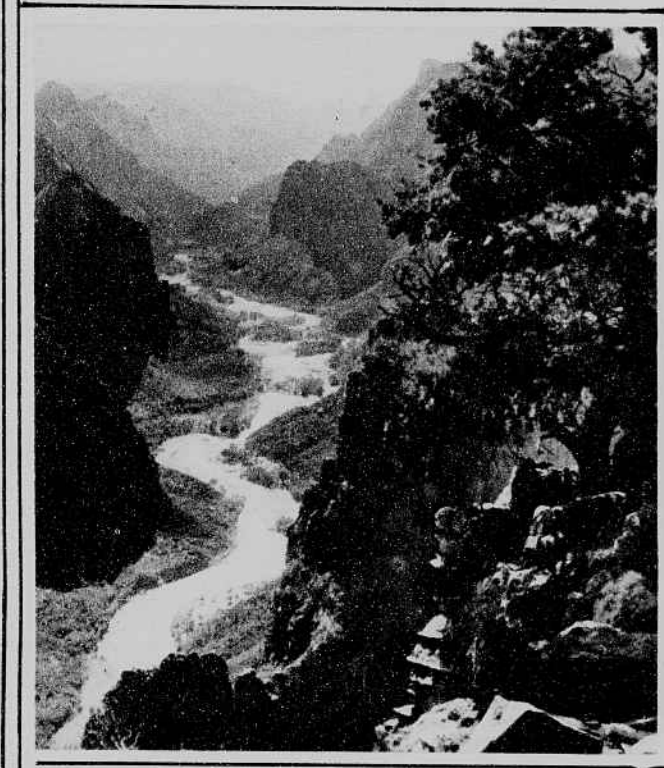

DOWN EAST. Great Meadow, Frenchman's Bay and islands in Lafayette National Park, Maine—the only National Park in the Eastern part of the United States.

Courtesy National Park Service

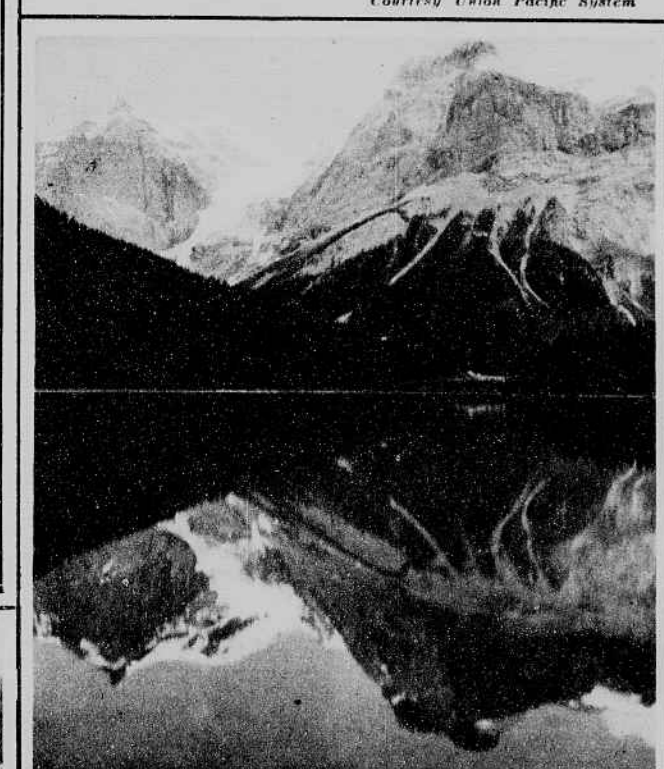

BOX CANYON. Looking up the famous "Box Canyon" which terminates the Fish Creek grade on the Apache Trail, Arizona—truly a land of exploration.

Courtesy Southern Pacific Lines

ZION CANYON. A most picturesque part of the spectacular chain of fantastically tinted gorges which form Zion National Park, in Southern Utah.

Courtesy Union Pacific System

EMERALD LAKE. Much of the majesty of the Canadian Rockies is reflected in this limpid body of water in Yoho Park, one of the many beauty spots in Dominion National Park.

Courtesy Canadian Pacific Railway

PREHISTORIC RUINS. The largest of the many ancient ruins of the cliff dwellers in the Mesa Verde National Park, Southwestern Colorado, some 300 feet long and containing about 200 rooms.

Courtesy National Park Service